HOUSE ANSWERS FUTRELL; FLINGS AT LEGISLATURE

Governor Invited to Make Specific Recommendations

Little Rock, March 2. (P)—The house today fought back Governor Futrell's recent statements criticizing the legislature for failure to enact revenue legislation and by resolution requested the chief executive to appear before the house not later than Monday to make specific recommendations.

The resolution, by Caraway of Dallas, was adopted without debate and without a dissenting vote following an attack on Governor Futrell by Gates of Cleveland, who declared the governor "ought to make his own recommendations instead of telling the legislature what to do in generalities."

Gates took the floor to answer a published report that the governor had referred to him as a "prevaricator" in connection with Gates' attack on the governor Wednesday night before a house committee hearing.

Gates had sought Thursday to amend the general appropriations bill to reduce the salary of H. G. McCall, secretary to the governor, from $3,600 to $3,000 a year.

He said on the floor of the house that his "efforts to save the state some money" had brought about the chief executive's attack on him.

The house adjourned shortly before noon until 9:30 a.m. Monday after passing a few appropriation bills.

They included the allowances for the Arkansas board of conservation and the state board of cosmetic therapy.

The house also voted to hold night sessions every night next week to try to clear the jam which now threatens.

To further clear the way for pressing business, the house adopted a resolution by Crawford of Union to bar an extension of the morning hour, the period during which the members usually "get off their chests" the subjects closest to them.

A committee of five also was named by the house to determine whether bills are non-contested so that they may be acted on finally during certain periods of the day.

Creation of a fact finding commission empowered to fix utility rates was voted yesterday by the house.

The house passed the bill, by Senator Johnson, 77 to 16, with only the voice of Nyberg of Phillips raised against it.

The bill, sponsored by the fact finding tribunal set up in 1933 to make finds-of-facts for municipalities, creates a new commission of lawyer, accountant and engineer members, with much the same organization layout now provided for the fact finding tribunal.

The house also approved, after a hard fight, Senator Cole's bill which seeks to make tax titles valid to funds sold to the state for non-payment of taxes. It gives the property owner two years to redeem.

The measure was hailed by Carter of Miller and others as one which would force the payment of property taxes, and Millwee of Sevier declared if it was enforced there would be
